SL Green-Originated Financing for Sony Building Acquisition Closes

New York, NY, March 20, 2013 -- SL Green Realty Corp. (NYSE: SLG) today announced that the $925 million bridge acquisition financing arranged by it for New York City's iconic Sony Building at 550 Madison Avenue has closed.

The building, which is currently Sony's U.S. headquarters, was purchased for $1.1 billion. The financing matures contemporaneously with the expiration of Sony's leaseback of the property, and consists of a $600 million senior loan originated by Bank of China, a $175 million senior mezzanine debt which SL Green sold to a private investment manager and a $150 million junior mezzanine debt originated by SL Green. Following completion of the financing, SL Green sold one half of its interest in the junior mezzanine debt.

The 37-story, 852,830-square-foot tower with its Chippendale-style roof pediment was designed by Philip Johnson and John Burgee and stands as one of the Manhattan skyline's most distinctive towers. It was originally built for AT&T.

"This deal illustrates SL Green's ability to structure, syndicate and execute financing for complex capital transactions," said David Schonbraun, SL Green's Co-Chief Investment Officer. "While we are best known as New York City's largest office landlord, we also have emerged as a major player in the structured finance arena. In that regard, SL Green is now the primary provider of subordinate capital for real estate transactions in the greater New York market."

Ironhound Management was the exclusive advisor to the borrower.
